

SURVIVAL GUIDE SERIES

How to Encourage Academic, Social and Emotional Engagement of School Age Children and Teens: A Survival Guide.

Join Us, April 15 at 1:00 pm EDT

REGISTER NOW at for a special presentation on implications of the COVID-19 pandemic on families.

During this free webinar from Healthy Connections, co-hosted by Marshall University and Marshall Family Medicine, Conrae Lucas-Adkins, PsyD with Marshall University's Department of School Psychology and Sandra Stroebel, PhD with Marshall University's Department of School Psychology will discuss ways to engage with school aged children academically, socially, and emotionally as we navigate through and adjust amidst the COVID-19 pandemic.

KEYNOTE PRESENTERS

- Conrae Lucas-Adkins, PsyD, Assistant Professor, MU Department of School Psychology College of Education and Professional Development
- Sandra Stroebel, PhD, Associate Dean/Professor, MU Department of School Psychology College of Education and Professional Development

This free learning session is being produced by Quality Insights, a Charleston, West Virginia-based non-profit that's providing in-kind marketing, branding and outreach services for Healthy Connections as part of its mission to bring people and information together to improve health.

Healthy Connections is a collaboration of more than 25 agencies serving the Huntington area, including Marshall University's Department of Psychology, Department of Social Work, and Department of Communication Disorders, Marshall Family Medicine, Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine, River Valley Child Development Services, Cabell Huntington Hospital, St. Mary's Medical Center, Valley Health Systems Inc., Cabell Huntington Health Department, the West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources, Lily's Place, Recovery Point WV, the City of Huntington, Mountain Health Network, Prestera Center and more.